

Public Art Application Assistance

This document has been updated as of September 9, 2021

We recognize that our investment programs and processes create barriers to access for many artists or organizations who are interested in applying. Our programs are written in English, shared online, and require applicants to submit online applications and reports in English. This creates technological, linguistic, communication, and cultural barriers, to name a few.

In recognition of these barriers to access, eligible applicants can request assistance to help alleviate some of the costs associated with preparing and submitting an application, final report or receiving and accepting an investment.

Who can Request Assistance?

Applicants who self-identify as:

- An applicant who is Deaf, hard of hearing, has a disability or is living with a mental illness.
- An applicant facing language, geographic or cultural barriers.

Before requesting assistance, please ensure that you are eligible to apply to that particular program.

What Type of Assistance can I Request?

Eligible applicants can request assistance at any stage of the application process for the following activities:

- Preparing and submitting an application.
- Receiving and accepting an investment (i.e., interpreting notifications, completing and returning a contract, completing direct deposit, etc.).
- Preparing and submitting a final report.

When do I Submit my Request?

- Application: Two to four weeks before you plan to submit but the sooner the better.
- Investment Acceptance: As soon as you know your results.
- Updates/Reports: Four weeks prior to your report due date.

How do I Request Assistance?

To request assistance please contact the public art team at publicart@calgaryartsdevelopment.com or 403.264.5330.

You will need to provide:

- The name and contact information of someone who can help you.
 - This could be a trusted friend or family member, or a professional service provider.
 - We may be able to make recommendations, depending on the service being requested.
- The amount you are requesting, including the service provider’s hourly rate.

Please see the maximum contribution amounts below for each program.

How will Requests for Assistance be Evaluated?

After receiving the required information, program staff will review requests and determine eligibility.

If approved, the public art staff will confirm the amount Calgary Arts Development is able to contribute. Your service provider must then send an invoice for the approved amount. Staff will process the invoice and pay the service provider directly through electronic fund transfer.
